

You are receiving this if you are on one of New England's "horsey" lists. We welcome any and all participants. This is a learning as well as a certifying school. If you are a judge already and your card is current then you need not attend unless you wish to be placed on the A list, as we require an interview for that listing. (We will also interview at Eastern States Exposition in September) If you wish to apply for your New England judge's card and have attended either the Pennsylvania or Multistate schools in 2007 or 2008 you can request a test and application, return them within one week of the end of our school (April 25th postmark) upon passing that test and acceptance of your application you will be placed on either the Learner or B list of Judges. We will be updating our New England list immediately after this school and posting on New England Cooperative Extension websites, the addresses will be in your application packets. This card covers all 6 New England states.

Website for rulebook: <http://www.maine4h.umaine.edu/horse.htm> look under horse and the rulebook is there to click on. Be sure to wait to download until you see revised Jan. 2007 on the rulebook. The New England Committee is currently revising our rulebook. The latest copy will be available by the time of Judge's School.

Thanks for you help in getting the word out! Please feel free to email or call with any questions.
